HULL OVER THE TOP.

Hull went over the top on Saturday night, and it is estimated that it is second only to Norwell in Plymouth County in the Third Liberty Loan Drive. Selectman John Smith telephoned the good news to the office of the Hull East Wind early on Sunday morning, and the editor was so elated that she wanted to get out a special edition at once to announce the good news.

Mr. C. V. Nickerson was made chairman of the Third Liberty Loan Committee by the State Chairman on recommendation of Selectman Smith, and that his judgment was good in recommending Mr. Nickerson is borne out by the result. The State Chairman and the County Chairman, Mr. Eldon B. Keith of Brockton urged Mr. Smith to take the chairmanship, and John would have made a good one, but he felt that just now with road work on hand he could not undertake it. However, his interest and enthusiasm have been important factors in the drive. With characteristic generosity Mr. Smith declares that the credit is wholly due Mr. Nickerson. While we are ready to give Clarence great credit, we opine that some of the credit is due to Mr. Smith. Some of the leaders in town affairs subscribed for $2,000 worth of bonds individually and one or two of their friends bought $5,000 each. Down here on this little peninsula town we take great pride in doing just as much as we can in everything that will help end the war. An old saying, "As goes Hull so goes the state," has become so deeply impressed upon our consciousness that we feel it a case of noblesse oblige, so to speak. We feel that we must do as the cowboy did if we would uphold the honor of the Old Bay State. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that down here the people were inclined to think the world "part of one stupendous Hull," and perhaps Oliver was right, and that is well, we should not be blamed for an excess of such laudable pride in our town when it makes us want to uphold its good works. At time of writing, Hull has gone over the top by contributing $62,150 for the Third Loan, and it is estimated when the returns are all in and the time has expired that the sum will at least reach $75,000, which will be $25,000 over the quota. It is felt in Hull that it should go over the top grandly. This start reminded us of the hesitation was it. The whole town seemed poised, and nothing was done, but when it started, the loan went with a rush. Last week we felt Hull was asleep, but it was just poised for the rush. Did you ever notice the dancers in a hesitation waltz? They stand at first poised for the fraction of a second, and then circle out in ever widening gyrations, gathering zest and abandon as they proceed. Well, that's just what the Third Liberty Loan Drive did and it will end sublimely.

BUNS FOR PARIS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Dr. John B. Manning, child specialist of Seattle, Wash., and new head of the dispensary work of the American Red Cross for the children of Paris in an interview granted to Esther Andrews said, "What those children need is food not tonics."

"It did not take long to find this out. Early in November 1917, we started holding children's clinics in connection with the tuberculosis dispensary founded by the Rockefeller Commission in the nineteenth arrondissement, the quarter of the Buttes Chaumont, whose chief thoroughfare (unknown to the American tourist in Paris) is the Avenue Jean-Jaures, named for the great prophet of French socialism.

"In two months work there I personally saw and examined for tuberculosis several hundred children who had been exposed to the disease. I found a large portion of them under-nourished, not starving, not underfed, but not being fed the proper kind of food.

Dr. Manning has been given authority by the Red Cross to do whatever he thought best and in a report to the Red Cross he has outlined a gigantic task which is necessary, and therefore the Red Cross will continue to need the hearty support of all.

EXEMPTION BOARD IN NEW QUARTERS

Local Board Division 37 which includes the towns of Rockland, Abington, Whitman, Holbrook, Hingham and Hull, has taken permanent quarters in the rooms recently vacated by the Rockland Savings Bank on Church street, Rockland. The location is on the ground floor and includes the use of the vault and directors' room. By the making of the local boards the board of record valuable material and evidence in connection with every registrant of the division is piling up and a visit from here would prove decidedly disastrous. The new location the board has vacated is a fire proof building. It is a large room which will be necessary when the records in connection with the first draft are returned from the district board at Taunton.

There is ample room to make physical examinations in the room formerly used by the directors of the bank. The telephone number remains the same, Rockland 500 and altogether the change is a good one.

WHEAT FLOUR IMMEDIATELY

Government Orders Household to Report Amount of Flour on Hand.

"The Federal Food Administrator hereby orders all householders who have on hand thirty pounds or more of wheat flour to secure the proper blank either from the Chief of Police, the Selectmen, or local Food Administrator, fill in the report, and mail to their local County Food Administrator."

"The United States Statute prohibits hoarding, and imposes a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and two years' imprisonment for those guilty of this offense.

"Any one having over thirty pounds of flour on hand who neglects to make this report before May 1st or makes a false report is liable to prosecution."

HENRY B. ENDICOTT,
Food Administrator.

In explanation of the foregoing order, Mr. Endicott states that from reports received, indications are that there are now on hand and in transit to Massachusetts enough flour for domestic use, if equitably distributed, to last us until the next harvest.

In view of the urgent needs of our Allies and soldiers, he wishes to do all in his power to secure this equitable distribution, and to reduce consumption. In England the ration of wheat flour is limited to three and one-half pounds per person per month, and this includes the flour contained in bakers' bread, macaroni, spaghetti, and the wheat contained in wheat cereals.

Many have voluntarily agreed to try to give up the use of wheat flour entirely.

Those householders who have on hand more flour than is allowed and who report the same before May 1st, need have no fear of prosecution.

The government reserves the right to purchase at a fair price supplies reported on hand.

Fill out coupon published elsewhere in this paper and return at once to MR. JOHN WHEELER, Hull, Mass.

FIRST IN PLYMOUTH CO.
Norwell has the honor to be the first town in Plymouth County to go "over the top" in the Third Liberty Loan. On Friday, April 11, Norwell turned in over 50 subscriptions amounting to $52,700, being $2,200 over her quota. Norwell feels, as all should feel, that a "quota" is not a set figure, but is the maximum amount she can possibly subscribe and her Committee is working hard to reach that maximum.

AMERICAN RED CROSS.

New England Division.

The Red Cross Nursing Service is the reserve of the Army.

The Army and Navy Nurse Corps is the regular Military Nursing Service that corresponds with the standing Army of the United States.

A Red Cross nurse in active service becomes a part of the Military and is subject to all rulings of the Army or Navy. She receives her appointments from the Surgeon General's office and her orders and transportation are issued from that office. Any graduate nurse (unmarried) born in the United States or any of the allied countries is eligible for military service. To go into military service she must be physically fit and between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five. Her physical fitness is passed upon by the Medical Department in Washington.

Once a Red Cross nurse always a Red Cross nurse, but when the nurse is in military service the Red Cross organization has no jurisdiction over her.

The same insurance and compensation laws apply to the nurse in active service as to the soldier. A nurse may specify that she does not wish foreign service.

The salary of the military nurse is $50 per month with maintenance and transportation for home service, and $60 per month with maintenance and transportation for foreign service. A nurse can designate that any part of her salary be paid direct to her beneficiary.

Home military service means service in the Army or Navy Hospitals of the United States. Foreign Military Service means service in the Military Hospitals abroad. The Army requires that the nurse enroll for a period of the war with the privilege of asking for a release at the end of a year.

The Red Cross issued a complete equipment to all nurses going into foreign service. Every nurse should provide herself with birth certificate or affidavit and two dozen unmounted photographs.

The Reconstruction work of the Red Cross abroad is not under the Military. The nurses in this branch of the work serve directly under the Red Cross. The requirements are much the same for this service as for the military, also the equipment issued by the Red Cross. The nurses going into this service do not come under the Military Insurance.

Any further information can be had by applying to the Nursing Bureau of the Red Cross Headquarters, 755 Boylston Street, Boston.

You Can't Make an Omelet Without Breaking Eggs

TO win the war it is unavoidable that the rights of the individual be infringed. It is unavoidable that his personal comfort be temporarily ignored, his personal property temporarily conscripted, his personal fortunes temporarily impaired.

We Must Make Haste We Must Strike Hard

There is no time to weigh too carefully the questions of individual equity. The big job, the one job, is to win the war. There will be plenty of time to talk about it and adjust grievances afterward.

All arguments aside, we've got one big job on at the moment—to

"Some time ago I happened to spend the night in a country town in Eng-

"We drifted into a conversation, and during the course of the evening he told me of some of the marvelous op-

One case in particular he spoke of had caused me considerable astonishment for I didn't know, I confess, that the operation had been successfully performed. He said he had recently taken out a patient's eye, scraped the back of it and returned it to its proper place. The patient, he said, was never troubled by bad eyesight afterward.
"That was a difficult operation, doctor," said I.
"Yes," said he, "it was."
"I suppose you found it necessary to employ an anesthetic."
"Yes, I did," he admitted.
"What anesthetic did you use, doctor?" I persisted.
"Oh, well, unless you are familiar with such operations you probably wouldn't understand if I were to tell you. But—well, it was shaped something like a spoon," explained the eminent specialist."

"There's a Reason"

IN ANOTHER KEY

Some idea of the great wealth that the Western Canada farmer had in view a few years ago is now being realized. The amount received from the sale of wheat, oats, barley, flax and rye in 1917 was $270,000,000, while the sales of live stock at Winnipeg alone netted $40,000,000 additional. Of this sum hogs alone gave over eleven million dollars. The increases at Calgary and Edmonton were over 64 million dollars.

This money so easily earned, is being spent in improvements in farm property, purchasing additional land, buying tractors, automobiles, and improving home conditions, providing electric light, steam heat, new furnaces, pianos, buying Victory bonds, paying off old debts, etc.

Over five hundred tractors were sold in Southern Alberta in 1917. One implement agent reports that the increase in his business in 1917, over that of 1916, was equal to the total business in 1915. It is the same story all over the country. And it is not this evidence alone which proves the advancement and growth of the three prairie provinces, but the large increase in the number of settlers; the improvement in the extent of the cultivated areas and agricultural production; the increase in value of which over 1916 was $77,000,000.

This wonderful progress that has been made in agriculture in Western Canada is but the beginning which marks the future of the greatest agricultural country on the continent,
showing a future of great possibilities.
There are millions of acres yet untilled, and of land as good as any of that which is now giving its owners a return of from twenty to thirty dollars an acre, figures that in many cases represent the cost of the land, with all cultivation costs included. It is true that the cost of production has increased during the past few years, but the price of the product has also increased to a figure which leaves a large balance to the credit of the producer.

The following table shows how this works out:

for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of your blood. If the poisons which enter your system through the blood and stomach are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder you are doomed.
Weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness,
depression, backache, stomach trouble,
headache, pain in loins, and lower abdomen, gall-stones, gravel, difficulty when urinating, cloudy and bloody urine, rheumatism, sciatica, lameness, all warn you to look after your kidneys and bladder.
GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are
what you need.
They are not a "patent medicine" nor a "new discovery." For 200 years they have been a standard household remedy.
They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used, and are perfectly harmless. The healing, soothing oil soaks into the cells and lining of the kidneys and through the bladder, driving out the poisonous germs. New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue this treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day. They will keep you in condition and prevent a return of the disease.
Do not delay a minute. Delays are especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All reliable druggists sell
GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules.
They will refund the money if not as represented. In three sizes, sealed packages.

BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP
Why use ordinary cough remedies, when Boschee's German Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning.
It gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

On the Back Porch

By R. P. HANDY

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

The Marlborough and the Richmond apartment buildings stood side by side with a narrow space between. The windows of the flat in one were directly opposite the windows of the flats in the other, and the people in each building often overheard what was going on in the other. In the third flat in the Marlborough lived Dorothy Malvern with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jenks. Dorothy was an excessively proper young woman who was so afraid that her opposite neighbors would see and hear what she kept all the side shades drawn most of the time and encouraged the family to talk in whispers. Fortunately the shades were a pale yellow, and a good deal of light came through them, and Mr. and Mrs. Jenks were naturally quiet. Otherwise life might have been a burden to them and Dorothy.

Their opposite neighbors were not so particular. These were two young bachelors, who laughed and joked and sang with supreme disregard of a possible audience. They left up their window shades, even when the gas was burning at full tilt, and Dorothy might have seen many a midnight card party or stag supper, but she never peeped from behind her own blinds. Yet the two young men fancied that they had a fair neighbor, for Dorothy sang like an angel. Fred Pritchard and Stanley Green enjoyed the frequent songs and often speculated about the singer.

"She must be the tall young girl, with golden hair and dark-brown eyes," said Fred one day. "Flat No. 1 next door is vacant; flat No. 2 is occupied by that young married couple with the baby that squalls all night; flat No. 3 by the fair unknown, and her people, and flat No. 4 by an old maid and her parrot. Ha, ha, how droll, ha, ha, how droll. Pretty poll!—the creature is always shrieking when I want to sleep. You see, Green, there is no young lady in the building except the singer. I have seen 'golden hair' come and go frequently—sometimes with an elderly lady or an old gentleman, sometimes with both of them, often alone. She must live in flat No. 3 and the old people must be her father and mother."

Her Back Was Turned.

Fred's curiosity carried him so far as to take him up the steps of the Marlborough and into the vestibule where he inspected the card under the bell belonging to flat 3.

"Jenks" he read. "I don't think much of that name. She doesn't look like a girl who would be named 'Jenks.'"

Oddly enough there was already but one "she" in the world for Fred. He was in love with Dorothy's voice and with her hair and eyes.

"By Jove," he exclaimed to himself, "if they should belong to two different people it would be cruel. I don't know which is most bewitching."

Fred and Stanley lived in the Richmond from October to the end of the following May, before Fred had a chance of becoming acquainted with the object of his admiration. The weather then was as warm as June. Fred was alone one evening, for Stanley was out of town. He sought the back porch of their flat with his after-dinner cigar. He started as he came out of the door. On the adjoining porch was a little rocking chair and in the chair sat the girl with the golden hair and the brown eyes. Her back was turned to the Richmond porches, and she did not see the newcomer. Her lap was full of sewing things and she was hemstitching dainty ruffles. Fred stood softly back into his kitchen and brought out a chair and sat down, throwing away his cigar. Presently Dorothy began to sing. Fred was delighted. Here was proof positive that the golden hair, brown eyes and exquisite voice were united in the same person. He longed for an opportunity to address the beautiful girl, although it would have seemed almost sacrilegious to him to have interrupted the song. A sudden puff of wind was most irksome. Catching a fluffy bit of mull, he breeze blew it out of Dorothy's lap, over the porch railing and down into the back yard.

The song ceased abruptly and Dorothy gave a little scream.

"Pardon me," said a manly voice from the other side of the division railing. "I'll get it for you, if I may."

Dorothy turned, gathering up her sewing materials in her little white apron as she did so.

"Oh, thank you, it isn't worth while. I can't think of troubling you," and she arose from her seat.

"No trouble at all," said Fred, as he disappeared through his back doorway. In a few minutes Dorothy saw him in the Marlborough yard picking up the ruffle. He glanced up at the porch with a bright smile and raised his hat. Soon the ruffle was in its owner's hands and Fred was on Dorothy's porch. Hearing voices, Mrs. Jenks came to the kitchen door and looked inquiringly around.

"Auntie," said Dorothy, "this is Mr.—" She paused with a charming blush, as it occurred to her that she had begun to introduce one whose name she did not know.

"Pritchard," supplied Fred quickly.

Mrs. Jenks did not grasp the situation, but to Fred's joy she did not attempt to do so at that time.

"Good evening, Mr. Pritchard," she murmured. "Dorothy, it is too cool for you out here. You and Mr. Pritchard had better come inside."

Fred could not resist the unexpected invitation. He followed the ladies through their back door. Mrs. Jenks was a notable housewife and her kitchen was as immaculate as her drawing room, so she did not flinch as she conducted the guest across it and down the entire length of the narrow hall to the front of her pretty little flat. The drawing room reached, she and Dorothy and Mr. Pritchard were soon engaged in pleasant conversation. Fred stayed as long as he dared. Mrs. Jenks, who had found him remarkably entertaining, asked him to call again.

"Why, auntie," exclaimed Dorothy, as soon as he was gone, "do you know that Mr. Pritchard is an entire stranger to me?"

"What on earth were you chatting together on the back porch for, then?" inquired the aunt. "To be sure, I don't see how he got there," she added reflectively.

"You funny auntie," said Dorothy, "you acted as though his being there were a matter of course. Did I ever take a young man out to the back porch—even Mr. Foster?"

"Well, how did he get there?" asked Mrs. Jenks. "I didn't show surprise when I saw him, of course not. It is never well bred to show surprise."

Dorothy laughed, and related her little adventure.

"You are a very clever girl," commented the aunt. "The young man is certainly a gentleman and is very entertaining."

Each day during the ensuing week Fred asked himself if he might call on his new acquaintances and prudence answered no. Twice he met Miss Malvern on the street near her doorstep and received a smile and a bow each time, but he saw nothing more of her during his period of waiting. Exactly one week after the affair of the ruffle he presented himself at the Jenks' front door. Mrs. Jenks and Miss Malvern were not at home. Fred waited three long days before calling again. Happily, the ladies were receiving. The evening passed pleasantly. Fred dared to ask for a song and Miss Malvern graciously granted his request. Mrs. Jenks skillfully drew out the young man and discovered that he was a lawyer and the nephew of one of the leading business men of the city. She did not hesitate to invite him to come again. Fred joyfully availed himself of the invitation. Before long he was a regular visitor at the house. He became a great favorite of Mr. and Mrs. Jenks, and he knew it. Of Dorothy he was not sure. One evening, when he and she were alone in the drawing room he found courage to tell her how long he had worshipped her from afar and to ask her to be his wife.

"Oh, Mr. Pritchard," cried the girl in genuine consternation, "I am so sorry—I never dreamed of this. I have been engaged for nearly a year to Mr. Foster, whom I have known from childhood."

"I have never seen him," stammered Fred awkwardly.

"No," answered Dorothy. "He went to St. Paul last December. He is a railroad man and he is ordered about like an army officer or a Methodist minister. We shall probably live in St. Paul. We are to be married in September."

Fred sorrowfully took his leave. He did not die of a broken heart, but it was six years before he married. His bride was neither young nor pretty, nor could she sing. She was a widow with two children. But she had half a million dollars.

Psychic Phenomena.

A French scientist has written a book on psychic phenomena, which he divides into three classes—"hypnotoid," not as yet implying the hypothesis of an agent still unknown; "manetoid," implying the hypothesis of causes still unknown, though still physical in nature, and "spiritoid," implying unknown causes of a psychological nature. In the first category are hypnotism and suggestion; in the second, animal magnetism and telepathy; and in the third the so-called phenomena of spiritualism as far as they remain distinct from the other two classifications.

The three classes, generally speaking, divide the phenomena into those which science accepts, which it is very doubtful about and which it rejects, or at the most regards for the present as outside of its province. And even the French scientist seems not to get us anywhere.

The little boy looked up at her in surprise and remarked:
"Bought it? Huh! We get 'em for nothing."

PROVED PUZZLE TO CENSOR

Official Naturally Did Not Understand Peculiar Form of Address Used Between Friends.

He always called me "mother" and so I called him "sonny" though there is only a year between us. When he went to France his letters began "Dear mother," and ended with "Your son —," and were just the "homey" bright letters a boy would write to his mother.

When a censor, somewhere in France, read one over and then discovered the address on the envelope to be "Miss —," he decided the boy had made a mistake. He had put his mother's letter in the envelope intended for his girl! He was a kind-hearted censor, for this is what I read at the end of one of such letters: "I am very sorry for the apparent error, but this is the letter I found in this envelope."—Vera.

Win the War by Preparing the Land Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops

Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than May 5th. Wages to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended Mrs. Miller's party and remained over the week-end were: Misses Campbell, McKenzie, Griffin, Barker, Madell, Brooks, Blaney and McLean, Mr. Kinney, Daniels, Tabb, Mason, Hemberg, Richardson, Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Richards. Mrs. Miller is a charming hostess and gave them all a good time.

Mrs. Krafts has arrived for the season at her summer home on T street.

Byrgessa Ruderham accompanied by his daddy went up Saturday evening to hear Lieut. Pat O'Brien at Tremont Temple. Lieut. O'Brien gave a lecture that every young man should hear. Byrgessa came home with the palms of his hands blistered from clapping Lieut. O'Brien.

Don't forget the Whist and Dance given by Mrs. N. W. Wanzer and Mrs. John Bryant Tuesday, April 23rd, on S street.

Lieut. Hemenway has taken the Hyzen cottage on Telegraph avenue for the summer.

Mrs. Hunt and daughter spent the week-end with Mrs. Robert Bryant. Mr. and Mrs. A. Dowd have both been sick with severe colds, Mr. Dowd, being threatened with pneumonia.

Mr. Mike Burns and Buster have returned from the Hot Springs after a pleasant month's visit.

Mrs. Robert Bryant was given a pleasant surprise on her 15th anniversary, April 16th, by friends who were present at her wedding. They presented her with beautiful cut glass gifts and flowers.

The Children's Red Cross Class which meets every Tuesday afternoon is progressing rapidly. The children deserve credit for their patriotic work, helping to win the war.

Miss Dolly Cleverly has been very ill with the measles but is feeling much better at the present writing.

The Burgess Dressings Class of the Hull Village Library held its first meeting Wednesday evening, April 17th, in the Library building.

Miss Letitia Mitchell is sick with influenza.

Another one of our popular Hull boys has offered his services to Uncle Sam.

Charles A. Pitts, enlisted in the Marine Corps, April 11th. He is the youngest from our town to go, and he was the youngest that passed the test.

He was seventeen years old Feb. 9th. Mr. A. Pitts has now two sons in the service. Charles' sister and father went to Boston to see him off for Port Royal, S. C., Saturday, April 13th. They will both miss him very much as he is the second and last of the boys in the family to go. He also will be missed by the boys as he was liked by all.

Mr. Augustus Pitts and daughter wish to thank the "Allerton Special Aid" for their kindness. They also wish to thank Fred Mitchell, Officer Eugene Mitchell and the boys in presenting Charlie with the present of $27.50 and the good farewell time they gave him at No. 3 Engine House the night before he went.

We are all glad to see Miss Helen Antoine out again and hope she will be able to assume her duties at Art School.

Miss Rena Concannon visited Miss Virginia Murphy over the week-end.

Miss S. Bernice Gilman spent the week-end in Lynn visiting some friends.

Rev. Thomas Burns of Lynn will supply the pulpit next Sunday in the Methodist Church as Rev. Frank Kingdon will be at conference.

HINGHAM HAPPENINGS

O. E. S.

The one hundred and eleven regular meeting of Dorothy Bradford Chapter, O. E. S. occurred on April 1st. The social hour was in charge of the five star points and funny tricks and games were enjoyed by all. Dainty refreshments were served.

The meeting of April 15th was a most interesting one. Sister Marion W. Hobart made very pleasing remarks and presented the chapter with a gavel made from Koa wood that she brought from Honolulu.

After the chapter was closed all were invited to the banquet held where Sister Frances R. Bickford, P. M., had arranged for moving pictures to be shown by Mr. Robert Winn, manager of the Y. M. C. A. at Fort Revere. Among the several invited guests of the evening were Capt. Sturgis of Fort Revere and Rev. Mr. Kingston of Hull, who gave short talks that were very instructive and inspiring.

Light refreshments were served from a table made most attractive with red, white and blue and miniature battleships.

Mrs. I. W. Ricker, our esteemed correspondent for Hingham, is still detained at Peekskill, N. Y., on account of having another "Job's Comforter," so called. She has the sincere sympathy of all her friends who are anxiously awaiting her return. Owing to the fact that the editor has been away on a combined business and pleasure trip to New York and not knowing Mrs. Ricker was not "on the job," very little news from this town was obtained this week. We hope to give a double portion next week.

The Arts and Crafts will give a whist next Tuesday.

The Girls' Friendly Society gave a very pleasant party to the sailor boys and those from Camp Hingham on Tuesday evening. A dance and lunch were the enjoyable features. About 100 were in attendance.

Mrs. George Marsh, who has been doing much effective war relief work, has gone away for a few days' rest.

The New North Church held a whist
in aid of war work and netted $50.

Baptist church one half hour is given over to the young people. Miss Avis Ridout will conduct the evening service next Sunday night.

Do not forget the mass meeting at Ventress Hall next Saturday evening,
April 20, on the Liberty Loan question.
Spirited speakers will be furnished and you will miss it if you are not there.

Miss Amy Watkins and her mother
are spending the week at their residence,
"Pineknoll" at Standish.

Louise Artmann is spending the week end with the Deacon and Mrs. Joyce of Standish.

Miss Clara Keene, who has been spending the winter with Mrs. Charlie Church, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Levitt Delano spent the weekend with her friend, Miss Alice Rams-dall in Boston.

The Union Grange will meet in the hall at Mr. Joseph Taylor's.

Mr. Bernbaum, son of Mrs. Dorothea Bernbaum, who is a professor in Illi-ois College, has been appointed chairman of the War Relief Committee, and being a live man, is doing excellent work.

To Be Remembered.
Frugality is good, if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last bestowing them to the benefit of others that need. The first without the last begins covetousness; the last without the first begins prodigality; both together make an excellent temper.—William Penn.

LAND COMMITTEE

The Public Safety Committee of Hull
is now considering its summer work.
The committee on Land is J. R. Wheeler, J. L. Mitchell, A. F. Pope and F.
P. Richardson. This committee is now working on the question of the procuring and disturbing of land for purposes of cultivation.

Every landowner who has idle land on his hands which he is willing to loan
the committee for the coming season is asked to notify the committee of this fact as soon as possible.

Every person who desires a piece of land for garden purposes should notify some member of the committee in writing at once. No land can be promised unless this requirement is met.

This is your business. Every inch of land and every ounce of strength available should be utilized this year for the production of food to help win the war.

FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN CLERK, TOWN OF MARSHFIELD

Marshfield Hills, Mass., March 7, 1918.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING

March 4, 1918.

Article 24. Voted to amend and adopt the following By-Laws.

Section 1. The Board of Selectmen shall have authority to grant Licenses to hawkers and peddlers for the sale or barter in the Town of Marshfield of fruits, vegetables or fish. Such Licenses, unless sooner revoked by the Selectmen, shall expire one year from the granting thereof and the fee for same shall be five ($5.00) dollars.

Sec. 2. No person shall go from place to place in this Town selling or bartering or carrying or exposing for sale or barter any fruits, vegetables or fish in and from any cart or other vehicle or in any other manner, without a License from the Board of Selectmen, provided, however, that this by-law shall not apply to any person who sells only fruits or vegetables raised or produced by himself or his own family, or fish which is obtained by his own labor or the labor of his family. Whoever violates any provision of this by-law shall be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty ($20.00) dollars.

Attest,

TOWN OF HULL.

Setting Fires in the Open.
An Act to Regulate the Setting of Fires
in the Open Air.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:
Section 1. It shall be unlawful within any city or town for any person to set, maintain or increase a fire in the open air between the first day of March and the first day of December except by written permission of the fire prevention commissioner for the metropolitan district within the said district, or of the fire warden or chief of the town's department, in any city and towns,
or in cities that have such an official,
the fire commissioner, provided, that debris from fields, gardens and orchards, and leaves and rubbish from yards may be burned on ploughed fields by the owners thereof, their agents or lessees;
and provided, further, that persons above the age of eighteen years may set or maintain a fire for a reasonable purpose upon sandy land, or upon salt marshes or sandy or rocky beaches bordering upon tide water, if the fire is enclosed within rocks, metal or other non-combustible material. In every case such a fire shall be at least two hundred feet distant from any sprout or forest land, and at least fifty feet distant from any building, and shall be properly extinguished until it is extinguished. The fire warden in towns and officials performing the duties of fire warden in cities shall cause public notices to be given of the provisions of this section and shall enforce the same. Whoever violates any provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one month,
or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 2. The provisions of the preceding section shall not apply to fires which may be set and maintained or increased within the metropolitan district

(By ROLAND G. USHER of the Vignettes.)

Put it to yourself straight now. You know perfectly well that you would feel ashamed to keep your boy out of the ranks if he wanted to go. You know perfectly well that you would probably feel ashamed before your neighbors if they knew that the boy was sticking at home. But have you ever asked yourself whether you felt ashamed that you were keeping your dollars tight in your jeans instead of lending your dollars to the war as well as your boy? If you have not got a boy you probably would feel that he ought to go if you had one. You have got some dollars, why don't you send them?

Think again; if you have sent a boy over there, don't you know for certain whether that boy will come back. God grant that he may. But he went just the same, knowing fully just as you did that he might not come back. You gave the dearest thing you had in the world to the government freely, for the cause of democracy. You were glad to do it; you felt fine about it. You still feel that if you had it to do over again you would not do anything else. But I will wager anything you like that you have a lot of money that you can lend to the government without hurting yourself at all, and which you are hanging on to until it screams. Think of it. Those dollars will be perfectly sure to come back if you lend them to the government. The government guarantees that. Why should you therefore be so afraid to loose your clutch on them. The great risk you have already taken and did it because it was a worthy and a noble thing to do. The thing which is no risk at all and yet which is just as necessary to the war as the other, you hesitate about.

Dollars YOU Come Back. Let me suppose for a moment that you have not yet sent your boy. I will wager you have a sneaking feeling that he ought to go. He has too. In this case, I won't have to make a wager about it—you have not sent your dollars. If you hesitate to send the boy because you are afraid he may not come back, you have a perfectly explainable reason, but you have not got a good reason why you should not send your dollars. They will come back, you may be sure of it. Not only will they come back, the government will pay you interest on them in the meantime. You will lend the government your capital and will get a return on it. Far from losing anything, you will make something. Why hesitate? Look at it from another point of view. If your boy has not gone, or if you have no son, your neighbors who have sons have sent them. Those boys are going into danger. They are going to need guns, food, artillery, ships, and airplanes, not only to enable them to do what they went over there to do—beat the Germans out of sight—but to keep them safe. If they don't have these things they certainly won't come back at all. You know perfectly well, however right-minded you may be, or however mean you may think yourself—and you are not half as mean as that—you would not hurt your neighbor's son just because a few dollars stood in the way. You would feel so ashamed of yourself for the rest of your life you would not be able to shave in the morning. Your neighbors' sons and your friends' sons that you have known all your life need the things your money can buy for them, and it is going to go mighty hard with them if they don't get them.

Make Your Money Help.

Now put it to yourself straight. If the thing was a little nearer to you so that you really saw your neighbor's son actually without food because you had declined to give it to him, you would not hesitate for a moment what to do. The difficulty is here, that the thing is on so large a scale that you do not realize that your failure to lend your money to the government is going to result very probably in depriving that particular boy of things he needs. You can say, if you like, there are so many millions of them that it will be some other fellow's son that will go without. I hope you won't get much comfort out of that, because it is the same old thing. You would not hurt him either if you saw him and knew he was in want; but because you don't see him, because he is somewhere in France, you forget about him and don't stop to think that he wants a thing you would not hesitate to give him if you knew him. Why hesitate, then, to lend your dollars to the government? They are the only thing that can really do this business. They are the only thing that can put tools into the boys' hands over there to kill the Germans with. Don't hesitate any longer now; get it straight, and go down and buy a bond and feel better about it for the rest of your life.

Famous Old English Castle.

Warwick castle is said to have been built by the Saxons before the first William landed on Albion's shores. One of its old towers has seen a thousand summers come and go, while the other portions of the structure belong to the fifteenth and the sixteenth centuries. It is one of the most romantic and picturesque edifices in England and is associated with the memory of the great "kingmaker" of the wars of the roses, Count Guy and other heroes who have clanged in heavy armor through the spacious rooms and in the banquet hall drank the health of the beautiful ladies of their line.

Keep Smiling.

Happiness of heart and soul can be willed. It is psychologically true that the laugh which is at first forced may later be made genuine. Try it. Try reading the joy column of the papers and magazines. Treasure the good ones and pass them on to friends. Don't destroy a play because it is for laughing purposes only. Hunt such comedies and tell others of them. Start every day in good humor, with a smile. It will help brighten the day for others.

Last Words of Rulers.

The ancients had an ear for last words, and among the reputed farewells of Roman emperors there have been handed down Nero's cynical, "What an artist the world is losing in me!" Julian's cry of surrender, "I have conquered, O Gallieni!" and Vespasian's ironic, "I feel myself becoming a god."

TWO THINGS THAT WERE NEW

Traveler Learned Something Concerning Delicate Surgical Operation and Peculiar Form of Anesthetic.

It is a Montreal physician who tells the following:

"Some time ago I happened to spend the night in a country town in England, and it happened that there was stopping at the same hotel an itinerant eye specialist. "We drifted into a conversation, and during the course of the evening he told me of some of the marvelous operations he had performed on the eye. One case in particular he spoke of that caused me considerable astonishment, for I didn't know, I confess, that the operation had been successfully performed. He said he had recently taken out a patient's eye, scraped the back of it and returned it to its proper place. The patient, he said, was never troubled by bad eyesight afterward. "That was a difficult operation, doctor," said I.

"Yes," said he, "it was." "I suppose you found it necessary to employ an anesthetic," "Yes, I did," he admitted. "What anesthetic did you use, doctor?" I persisted. "Oh, well, unless you are familiar with such operations you probably wouldn't understand if I were to tell you. But—well, it was shaped something like a spoon," explained the eminent specialist."

Man must take the world as he finds it and leave it in pretty much the same condition.

If you happen to find your feelings all worked up, order a fresh supply.

PRETTY MOTOR DRIVER TRAINING FOR WAR

The young lady is an expert driver and mechanic and has been active in recruiting work in New York.

HOW AUTOMOBILE MAY BE LEARNED

Initial Lesson in Handling Machine Should Be How to Stop Quickly.

STARTING NOT SO IMPORTANT

Make Numerous Attempts to Bring Car to Standstill Until Confidence is Gained—Measure Distance Accurately.

Running an automobile through traffic is like swimming in deep water. Don't do it until you are so sure of yourself that all danger of panic has gone by. And always expect the unexpected. Leave your family or friends at home on those first few rides.

Initial Lesson.

As your initial lesson, after you have learned the names, and above all the potentialities of the various levers, learn how to stop. Of course, as a preliminary, you must start, but that can be at your leisure. Make a dozen—or even a hundred—attempts to bring the car to a standstill until you have gained confidence. Then adventure along some quiet, unobstructed road.

After you have received some instruction about the general mechanism of the car, practice stopping suddenly before reaching imaginary dangers along the road. Don't wait for this lesson until a child, a chicken, an absent-minded suitor or some other irresponsible live thing sends your brand-new knowledge better-sketcher.

Measuring Distance.

Measuring distance accurately is the most important feature of driving. Draw two lines across the road fifty feet apart. Then, going at the rate of twenty miles an hour, apply the brake and see how long it takes you to stop the car. When you discover how much over the fifty-foot line your automobile goes, you realize the necessity for the driver's first rule—caution.

This trial also teaches you what speed is safe in approaching railroad crossings and intersecting streets, and how near you can go to traffic before applying your brake.—Popular Science Monthly.

TO FIX BATTERY CONNECTION

Stripped End of Wire Should Be Wound Around Binding Post in Clockwise Direction.

In making an ordinary connection to a battery terminal, the stripped end of the wire should be wound around the binding post in a clockwise direction. When the screw is tightened, it will be turned to the right and with the wire wound in the same direction, there is a tendency for it to wrap all the tighter around the post. When the wire is wrapped the other way around, it tends to unwrap when the screw is tightened.

Oil Brakes Sparingly.

It has been well said that there is one set of bearing surfaces on a car which should never be oiled—the brakes. This is not strictly true, as a squeaking brake must be oiled, but with caution. Use castor oil in moderation until the squeak is stopped.

NEW HEADLIGHT FOR AUTOS

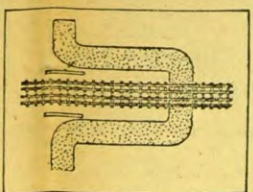

Connected With Front Axle and Always Points in Same Direction With Front Wheels.

The latest development in automobile lighting is a headlight which always points in the right direction. Every motorist has known the annoyance which arises in turning corners, when the front wheels are pointed in one direction and the headlights in another, and the country to left or right is lighted, while the road he wants to travel is dark. The new headlight is connected with the front axle in such a way that it turns with the front wheels instead of with the body of the car, and always points in the direction the wheels are pointed, which is, of course, the path that the car will travel.

SLOWING DOWN AT CROSSING

Unique Plan to Prevent Autoists Dashing Upon Tracks Already Occupied by Train.

Patent papers have been granted on a unique plan to prevent autoists dashing upon railroad tracks already occupied by a train. The plan might arouse the ire of the automobilist, but it would probably make it impossible for these accidents to occur. The idea consists of making a sharp curve in the road at a point just before the tracks would be reached under ordinary circumstances, so the chauffeur is compelled to slow up and make two turns before getting on the track. While performing this evolution it is thought that there would be ample opportunity for observing the approach of a train in either direction.

WATER AS CARBON REMOVER

Highly Recommended and Really Effective—Old Timer Describes Simple Method.

Water is a highly recommended and really effective carbon remover. It is the best, old-timers say. One man advises a simple method: "When your motor is running idle, speed it up until the air valve in the carburetor opens. Take a syringe, about the size of a hypodermic syringe, and inject water slowly into the carburetor. Do this four or five times, and you will see the carbon in huge chunks come out through the exhaust."

Spinning Wheels.

When the rear wheels are in a muddy spot, do not try to drive the car out by spinning them. The slower the wheels turn the better the chance of gripping the surface. If the car can be rocked by alternately engaging and disengaging the clutch it will be found that the pendulum action of the car will carry it out of almost any bad spot.

The Bloomin' Kaiser.

Recently E. U. Graff, superintendent of Indianapolis public schools, sent instructions to the teachers of the third grade to eliminate from the children's readers the German poem, "The Kaiserblumen." At school No. 41, Thirtieth and Rader streets, appropriate exercises were held while the pages containing the poem were pasted together. The teacher, in giving reason for this action, explained the nature of the poem and said that nothing in honor of the terrible kaiser would be allowed in their books.

When she had finished, one precocious youngster arose and solemnly declared: "That poem shouldn't be called 'The Kaiserblumen'; it should be called 'The Bloomin' Kaiser'."

Up for Inspection.

This is a story told by a man home on furlough from Camp Custer: The soldiers were lined up for inspection and every man was clean shaven but one.

"Why have you such a beard?" asked the sergeant.

"I couldn't find any barber shop any place," said the man.

FRECKLES

New Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove them homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is a salve that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles—Adv.

Finder of Rare Bug Has Vision of Great Riches

SAN FRANCISCO.—John W. Kehoe, who is making a fight in Superior Judge Edmund P. Morgan's court for half of the $1,500 his wife, Esther Kehoe, has earned since their marriage in 1913, testified that he expects to be a rich man some day, for he has invented several things and has discovered a rare bug. He discovered the bug, he testified, while working in the United States laboratories.

"What's the bug good for?" demanded Judge Morgan.

"It is a rare and, I presume, a valuable bug," said Kehoe. "I am working now to discover a use for it."

Kehoe added that during his married life he had acted as housekeeper while his wife worked in a San Francisco store, where she earns $200 a month. He said he did the cooking, the mending and the washing, except that he did not launder the linen after he had tried to and failed. His wife sent the linen to the laundry after that.

During the four years following his marriage, he said, he had worked 15 hours a day on his inventions, among which is one to "predetermine how many feet of film will be necessary to make a moving picture of any given subject." He has invented other moving-picture appliances, but told Judge Morgan that none of the producers would listen to him.

Kehoe testified that he had worked for a while as a magazine solicitor, but was so "temperamentally unfitted" for this work that he sold only four magazines. He also worked in a butcher shop at one time, and all he earned he contributed to the household expenses, holding out only enough for lunch and cigars.

Mrs. Kehoe wants a divorce on the ground of failure to provide.

Probably Belongs to Academic 'Academic Anarchists'

NEW YORK.—Two men were talking about the war. To get it exactly straight, one man did the talking while the other played audience in a car. "I tell you, old man, the anarchist is right. This war had to be; to kill off rulers and the titled class. When it is over you will see what a millennium looks like with the laboring man having his rights for the first time on earth. Fact is there will be no laboring man, because there will be no boss. Each will be free to help himself to the pleasures and leisure that are his due. As to all that bunk about the shelling of historic monuments—what use are they? When you come right down to it, what do we want with anything the past can give us when we have the future ahead? I wouldn't give a hill of beans for all the old masters and cathedrals you could make me a present of, except for the money they would bring. I'm a plain man with no frills, and I—sorry to have to get out here, but come around to my new place—here's my address—phone me any evening and I'll get in a couple of fellows for cards."

The man who had played audience chuckled over the card, and when, a bit later, he pressed a button, it was plain by the absentmindedness with which he let the thing fall that he had no intention of accepting the invitation. There are always prying people, who want to know more than the law allows—which means an apology for the woman in the seat behind for swiping the card—just for the fun of finding out by what name an anarchist defender, who despised the ancient landmarks of time, scorned ancestry and boasted his lack of frills, might "go by."

And to show also that a prying person may be generous in the sharing of knowledge, here is the card, except for its first name!

AND RELIEF COMMITTEE, COHASSET, MASS.

Letter From Sergt. Eugene C. McSweeney, Co. K, 101 Infantry, A. E. F.

March 4, 1918.

Dear Mother:
This is my first letter for quite a while, but I've been awfully busy. I am feeling fine and am in good spirits. I hope you all are as well as this letter leaves me.

Well I'll carry on and tell you a little about the trenches. On your way up you pass through cities and towns all destroyed and uninhabited, and on passing through them everything is desolate; it puts a thrill through you. Then you go over roads all banged up and destroyed with shell holes and all the land around is punctured with shell holes.

In the front trenches the shells going through the air over your head sound like the 20th Century Limited going about 200 miles an hour with their whirr-rr-rr. When everything is quiet and you take a look around, it looks like "Hell cooled off." It's one grand big Fourth of July celebration with all the noise and all the signal rockets and "very" lights at night.

We lived underground for about three weeks. Keep the mail coming and also cigarettes, for you cannot realize how good it is to receive mail up in the trenches. It's fun to talk about your little frights you had over the "Big Boys" (shells). I'll tell you of one instance I had. I was standing down in a communication trench looking over into the Boche lines with my glasses one fine morning and they started peppering a few over. You could hear them coming like a train of cars and you would swear that they were coming for you and it seems as though they were tagged with your name on them. Well when they began coming I made myself as small as I could and crouched low and against the side of the trench. They were landing about a mile or two back of me and I turned around and looked back of me into the trench and there was a Frenchman working cleaning out the mud in the trench and he had a great laugh, I guess, watching me duck. When these shells go off they make an awful noise and a large hole, too. They are high explosive.

With best regards to all,

Then "Matron" Gavin, in the "East," gave words of cordial fellowship, "Fraternal Love," free from all guile.

The message "Patron" Ricker gave, in solemn tones, and strong, was, "Charity," to rule our lives, Kind "Charity," which suffereeth long.

When "Matron" Ricker was our guide A social, cheerful, friendly way To help each other, was her thought And have our lives, one bright, glad day.

A man of high and noble aims Was "Patron" Underwood. He studied well his Chapters needs, And helped in every way he could.

Our present "Matron," Mrs. Jones, Is all good things combined; Her, "brainy," energetic rule, Will never let us lag behind.

And "Patron" Bickford's quiet words, With ready, helping hand; His watchful care, "lest we forget" Will keep a working, loyal band.

I very much would like to speak Of all our officers, too. But there are splendid things to come, So that would never do.

Our members all are good and true, Each love their Chapter work, They do it always, do it well, Not one has ever been a shirk.

We meet upon the "level" And part upon the "square." What gems of precious meaning These words, Masonic, are.

We'll join with our "Protectors" In true "Fraternal" way, But add, God bless you "Sisters" On this, our festival day.

Although I sure am growing old, And often, neither miss, nor hit I gave my word, to do a part, So here it is, I've "done my bit."

ORIGINAL POEM

By Mrs. Carrie T. Richardson.

Read at the entertainment of Dorothy Bradford Chapter 135, O. E. S., at Masonic Hall on Monday evening Mar. 18.

Our Worthy Matron had a wish For thoughts, expressed in rhyme, To celebrate our "wooden" fifth, Our anniversary time.

Five years ago, a little band Whose brains were keen and bright, Sought out a "Star," whose brilliancy Would fill our lives with light.

They found a "star," which long ago Led "from the East," wise men, Glowing with rays of five bright shades Set, side by side, in one pure gem.

This little star so pure and sweet Was given a Puritan name; And, as it was of feminine sex "Dorothy Bradford," it became.

As Hingham has "Old Colony Lodge" Of Masons, loyal, grand They gave this little maid, to be A "daughter," to this band.

The "Matron," first placed "in the East" With "Patron," by her side Was Mrs. Wyman—Mr. Rich Our steps aright, to guide.

And well they led us through the paths Of "emblematic" light, They truly taught us "Faith and Love," Would lead our steps aright.

The next to tell us how to live, Was "Matron" Bickford's work; She told us to live straight, and clean. Stick to it well and never shirk.

While "Patron" Godfrey did his part In earnest, thoughtful way, He taught the need of "trust in God" To reach at last "the Perfect Day."

Then "Matron" Gavin, in the "East," Gave words of cordial fellowship, "Fraternal Love," free from all guile.

The message "Patron" Ricker gave, In solemn tones, and strong, Was, "Charity," to rule our lives, Kind "Charity," which suffereeth long.

When "Matron" Ricker was our guide A social, cheerful, friendly way To help each other, was her thought And have our lives, one bright, glad day.

A man of high and noble aims Was "Patron" Underwood. He studied well his Chapters needs, And helped in every way he could.

Our present "Matron," Mrs. Jones, Is all good things combined; Her, "brainy," energetic rule, Will never let us lag behind.

And "Patron" Bickford's quiet words, With ready, helping hand; His watchful care, "lest we forget" Will keep a working, loyal band.

I very much would like to speak Of all our officers, too. But there are splendid things to come, So that would never do.

CASTLE SQUARE

People who go to the Castle Square next week will be entertained by one of the best and most varied of programs. It will include dramatic and comic photoplays, and these will be interspersed by music and dancing. For the first half of the week, the Landlord and the fact that a Mack Sennett comedy, "Friend Husband," is to be given is assurance of continuous laughter. These are a few of the attractions that will make a continuous bill lasting from half past twelve until ten o'clock in the evening.

Beginning Thursday, the program will be changed, and Mary Garden will be featured in "The Splendid Sinners." Miss Garden's fame and popularity as an opera singer has been extended to the movie stage, and this is one of the most dramatic of her pictures. Roy Stewart will also be seen in a romantic photoplay entitled "The Boss of Lazy Y."

Throughout the week there will be a vaudeville entertainment headed by Andru Lewis and Holton Norton, the company including a dozen clever singers and dancers.

NANTASKET.

Miss May O'Brien, one of the summer residents of Kennerma, and an enthusiastic Kermernaite, writes that the extra hour of daylight is an added inducement for people to spend the long evenings at Kennerma.

Mr. George Dodge, "the Paragon Park man," is often seen in his "green car," which has become famous.
Mr. Joel Bean, "the Kennerma Park Man," is often seen in his "red car," which has become famous.

A Man Famine

IN common with other countries involved in the World War, the United States is now suffering from a depletion of its business forces because of the large number of men who have entered the service of the government in the business of war. This condition is likely to become more acute in the near future. Business effort is further hampered by the cancellation of many trains on the railroad, and by congestion of traffic.

What is the answer? Conservation!

This is the watchword, the slogan of today—We are asked to save food, coal, materials of every kind, yet but little has been said about the CONSERVATION OF TIME, TRAVELLING EXPENSE, etc., which are also matters of great importance.

The most effective aid to Conservation is the telephone because—

It is the quickest means of communication and thus conserves time.
It enables one man to do the work of many and thus conserves labor.

It is surprisingly effective of results, being equal and sometimes superior to a personal call, and thus increases business efficiency.
It is economical when we consider what can be accomplished by a telephone interview of a few minutes' duration, comprising several hundred words of conversation; it, therefore, conserves money.

Then why not make "Conservation by Telephone" your slogan?
